This is Eric Houston's brother-in-law I don't know what we have to do but we need to put this court date out further because of Eric's medical condition I've sent some stuff to Jamie whatever her name is I really don't appreciate Jeremy Johnson I think his name is telling my brother-in-law he's a liar on his medical stuff that is not professional I do not take kind of that when my brother-in-law is having serious medical conditions we will see in the document to show you he has Home Care Health and nurses coming into the house to take care of them we would like to have this put out until Eric is more well to do this we're asking for that for him please

Swelling of the feet, ankles, and legs is called edema. It is caused by excess fluid collected in the tissues. Extra fluid in the body settles in the lowest part because is why the legs and feet are most affected.

Some of the causes for edema include:

- Disease of the heart such as congestive heart failure
- Standing or sitting for long periods of time
- Infection of the feet or legs
- Blood pooling in the veins of your legs (venous insufficiency) when the elasticity
- Dilated veins in your lower leg (varicose veins)
- Stockings or other clothing that is tight on your legs. This will cause blood to pool in the legs because the clothing limits blood flow.
- Some medicines. These include some hormones such as birth control pills, and some blood pressure medicines such as calcium channel blockers, steroids, and drugs such as MAO inhibitors and tricyclics.
