Boulder County is interested in helping you prepare for future wildfires. Creating and maintaining effective defensible space and a safe home ignition zone are essential parts of your preparations.

This photo shows your minimum defensible space zones 1 and 2. After looking at it, are you confident that your home can withstand a wildfire? Learn what actions you should take in each zone to protect your property, be a good neighbor, and support your community at www.bouldercounty.org/wildfiremitigation

The Fourmile Fire taught us that wildfire disasters cannot be prevented without homeowners actively creating and maintaining effective defensible space and home ignition zones with low home ignition potential. Please contact us if you'd like more information.
